

LOUIE'S BLUE MARTINI

When the light is on this is what's going on

DRINK HISTORY "BEER"

VOL 1, ISS 9, OCT06

Beer is one of the oldest beverages humans have produced, possibly dating back to at least the 8th millennium BC, and recorded in the written history of Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia. As almost any substance containing carbohydrates, namely sugar or starch, can naturally undergo fermentation, it is likely that beer-like beverages were independently invented among various cultures throughout the world.

In Egypt, Mesopotamia, and the Levant, large-scale production of beer was common. In Europe, beer was being produced by or for monasteries as early as the 7th century. By the 14th and 15th centuries, beer had achieved great popularity, at least in part because health epidemics made drinking beer safer than drinking water. However it was not until the 17th century, that beer took on the styles and flavors that we might recognize in the beers of today.

Today, the brewing industry is a huge global business, consisting of several multinational companies, and many thousands of smaller producers ranging from brewpubs to regional breweries and the special brews of Louie's Blue Martini.

We have our first winner of the Pink Elephant Award. Mr. "Bud" Cornwell was the proud recipient of this award on September 24th 2006. Please be sure to congratulate him.

On October 14th we will be celebrating the October Birthdays by hosting an Oktoberfest. We will have home brew Oktoberfest beer, great food and of course plenty of fun.

On October 28th will be the annual Halloween party, the usual finger foods will be served along with my featured drink of the month. Costumes are mandatory.

As always remember to drink responsibly and do not drink and drive. I guess I also need to mention to be careful when walking home.
